EEN CONVICT NIFE ATTAC

Dangerous: Jonathan

By Lucy Purdy

A TEENAGER from Tottenham has been found guilty of attempted murder after stabbing a man with a large hunting knife in an unprovoked attack

Jonathan Kaggwa, 18, of Tiverton Road, Tottenham, was found guilty of attempted murder and two counts of possession of an offensive weapon at Snaresbrook Crown Court on September 4.

While on routine patrol in Ida Road, Tottenham, on February 18, police officers saw a man being stabbed.

Kaggwa ran off along Alexandra Road, but was chased by officers and detained in North Grove. He was found to have on him a large huntingstyle knife with a foot-long blade which was still dripping with blood.

Kaggwa was searched and another large kitchen knife was found hidden under his jacket. He was arrested on suspicion on possessing an offensive weapon.

At the scene of the assault, a 21year-old man was found suffering from three serious stab wounds. He was bleeding heavily and slipping in and out of consciousness. Officers gave first aid until he was taken to the Royal London Hospital in Whitechapel for life-saving surgery. He has now recovered from his injuries.

Kaggwa was also arrested on suspicion of attempted murder and charged on February 18.

Police say the man who had been stabbed was unwilling to support the prosecution, but the case went ahead without him.

During the trial, Kaggwa said he had been in the wrong place at the wrong time. He claimed he had seen the true attacker run past and throw the knife towards him which he picked up leading to his wrongful arrest. The jury did not believe his account and he was found guilty.

He will be sentenced at Snaresbrook Crown Court on October 2.

Detective Constable Stephen Bent from Haringey CID said: "This was an extremely violent attack in which Kaggwa stabbed a man several times.

"I am pleased that this dangerous young man has been found guilty. We are determined to bring all offenders of violent assaults to justice.

Council decides Christmas party can go ahead after all

By Lucy Purdy

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS whose plans for a Christmas party for lonely neighbours were thwarted by Enfield Council are celebrating after the local authority had a change of heart.

The council had displayed a seemingly Scrooge-like attitude when members of the Ayley Croft Community Association were forced to cancel plans for a Christmas Day party for residents in the estate's community centre, in Ayley Croft, Bush Hill Park.

Chairwoman Hannah Roberts was told that health and safety restrictions meant the hall could not be opened on Christmas Day.

But perhaps the ghosts of Christmas past, present and future paid a late-night visit to health and safety bosses, for when Miss Roberts opened an email last week she found out that a dramatic turnaround meant Christmas had not been cancelled after all – and the party could be held.

She told the Advertiser: "We had been really disappointed, particularly as the given reason was that a bank holiday followed the date of the planned party. We had held events with this being the case before, so it seemed silly.

"But the council said it had changed its mind and has even given us £250 toward the event now, so we're pleased it can go ahead.

"A lot of people living here are older and don't necessarily have families nearby, so we wanted to arrange a festive community party that everybody could come to and enjoy."

A council spokeswoman said she was delighted to announce the residents could now use the hall for the party.

"This one-off letting was agreed on the basis that the residents' association is a regular user of the hall," she said. "We wish the association a very merry Christmas – we hope they enjoy the celebrations. We're delighted to support this wonderful event and we very much applaud the way the community has pulled together to arrange such a lovely event for isolated elderly people at Christmas time."

The secretary of the association John Dolan told the Advertiser: "We are delighted. Derek Levy, one of the Southbury ward councillors who was at the meeting where we revealed we would not be able to go ahead with the party because of council regulations, wrote to officers and asked why we weren't allowed to have the party – and now we have this result.

"Christmas Day is a special day and it would not have been the same to have the party on Christmas Eve.

"By letting us give residents this party, it will help stop isolation and loneliness among residents and bring people together to have a good time."

Corbyn victory leaves Edmonton MP Osamor delighted

AN MP who was one of the first politicians to nominate Jeremy Corbyn as Labour leader has welcomed his win.

Kate Osamor, the Labour MP for Edmonton, spoke in the Advertiser last week ahead of Saturday's election result of her support for the anti-austerity candidate, who was the only one of the leadership candidates to vote against the Government's Welfare Reform Bill.

Mr Corbyn, the MP for Islington North, won a landslide victory in the leadership race, claiming almost 60 per cent of the vote in the first round, leaving his rivals, Andy Burnham, Liz Kendall and Yvette Cooper barely scraping together 40 per cent of the vote between them.

Ms Osamor, who was elected as an MP for the first time in May, said: "This result is a sign that politics is changing and that people want to do things differently.

"Jeremy Corbyn won this election by running a positive campaign involving thousands of volunteers across the country."

In the first hours after his victory was declared, a number of high profile MPs including former city lawyer Chuka Umunna and Tristram Hunt ruled out serving under Mr Corbyn in a shadow cabinet citing ideological differences with the anti-austerity MP.

But the Edmonton MP.

But the Edmonton MP, who joined Mr Corbyn in voting against the Tories' Welfare Reform Bill, said the new leader had "brought together a unifying shadow cabinet and I look forward to working with them to put forward a convincing alternative to the Tories".

Faiths rally round to help refugees

Groups pledge to offer help and support

Enfield's Muslim community is raising funds for refugees through their mosques. Mohammed Tarik Sediq, CEO of Palmers Green Mosque in Oakthorpe Road, said: "We are supporting two charities at present which work with refugees in Europe and the Middle East. One is bringing hygiene, food and clothing. Another medical aid and food."

Mr Sediq added: "We are very keen to support all these people regardless of their religion, and keen to expand our work in this area."

One group which will have some first-hand understanding of what today's refugees are going through is the borough's Cypriot community. When Turkey invaded the island in 1974, thousands lost their homes and fled to England, while 200,000 became refugees with their own country and still are displaced.

Councillor George Savva said: "We hope and pray that a long-term solution can be found.

"We must never forget, both Greek and Turkish Cypriots suffered so much. About 50,000 refugees came from Cyprus. The largest number settled in Enfield and Haringey.'

Speaking from Cyprus, where an aid container with clothes, shoes and other supplies had just been unloaded, Mr Savva, who represents Haselbury ward, said: "It's really a very moving experience. There are Syrian refugees here on this bus from a recent rescue."

He praised the work of the Cypriot Red Cross, which he said was making an "amazing effort."

St Anne's Catholic Girls School in Oakthorpe Road, Enfield, has also become involved helping the refugees. They recently joined North London Citizens (NLC), an alliance of 45 institutions including churches, schools, mosques, synagogues, charities and universities which pledged to work together on a range of social issues.

NLC organiser Judy Master told the Advertiser: "The issue of refugees is a major priority for us. We are compiling a list of organisations and individuals that can offer accommodation, clothing, household supplies, toys, books and probably above anything else, friendship.

"There are large numbers of unaccompanied children who will need to be settled in foster homes. These people have been through terrifying experiences – escaping Assad's bombs and the terror of ISIS. They have lost everything, their homes, their jobs – often family members. They need to be made welcome."

16-year-old boy who died after being hit by a train at Enfield Chase station just after midday on Sunday.

An investigation is being carried out by British Transport Police into the circumstances surrounding the death of Frank O'Donoghue at the station in Windmill Hill.

Paying tribute to the teenager, his brother James O'Donoghue wrote on Facebook: "Frank O'Donoghue, our beautiful son, brother, nephew, grandson and friend to so many has passed

"We all loved him and he knew that he was loved. Please allow the family time and privacy to come to terms with the tragic loss of this very special young man.

James had posted messages on the social media site on Sunday evening and again on Monday asking for help in finding his younger brother after he failed to return home.

He said: "I want to say a huge thank you to everyone who shared the posts and went out on the streets to help find Frank.

"We were all touched by your support. It was truly incredible to know so many people loved and cared for him.

"Unfortunately, on the 13th of September, my amazing, funny and clever little brother, Frank, passed away.

"Inquiries are continuing and we are keen to speak to anyone who has any information about Alex both prior to and since he has gone missing. It is important for us to build up a picture of events leading up to Alex going missing so that all lines of inquiry can be followed up.

"We are hoping that this re-appeal will trigger someone's memory so they can come forward with new information.

"I urge anyone with information on his whereabouts to call us immediately or speak to Crimestoppers

"I would also appeal to Alex that if you are in any kind of trouble then we can help you. Just call your family or the police to let us know you are safe.'

Alex is described as a light-skinned black man and 5ft 5ins tall, of medium build and with striking blue

Violent robber who preyed on lone jewellers gets five-year sentence

Bv Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A VIOLENT robber who was arrested after a high-speed police chase through north London is now behind bars.

Joel Law, 28, of Hodson Place, Enfield Island Village, robbed two jewellery stores in Barnet and Haringey, targeting shops where staff worked alone.

staff worked alone.
On June 10, Law walked into Georgy's Jewellers in Ballards Lane, West Finchley, armed with a wrench and grabbed the 51-year-old man working in the shop by the throat.

He made off with gold necklaces and some other jewellery.

Eight days later, on June 18, Law walked into Zeyno's Jewellers in Green Lanes, Haringey.

This time he carried what looked like a weapon wrapped in clothing. Again, he grabbed the 26-year-old

Again, he grabbed the 26-year-old shop assistant by the throat, forcing him back against the wall before making off with jewellery and cash.

He was seen leaving the scene of the crime in a dark blue Peugeot 208 and police found that Law had in fact been using the car.

When officers analysed CCTV they identified him as the man who had carried out both robberies had carried out both robberies.

Three days after the Haringey robbery, officers on patrol in Haringey spotted Law in his Peugeot and a high-speed chase began.

Law tried to escape the police by driving through Haringey at over 70mph down the wrong side of the road, at one point swerving in front of a bus and down the pavement.

Police chasing Law were told to stop the pursuit because of the risk to the public but a helicopter tracked his movements and directed officers on the ground to where he was headed.

He parked the car on Manor Road, High Barnet, and ran off through residential gardens, eventually stopping and hiding next to bins behind a garden gate, where officers found and then arrested him.

Law pleaded guilty to both robberies at Snaresbook Crown Court on August 21, admitting to having stolen approximately £22,000 in cash and jewellery. He also pleaded guilty to possession of an offensive weapon and dangerous driving.

On Thursday, he was jailed for five years and four months for the offences

The victims in both incidents revealed that they feared for their lives because of the level of anger and aggression used by Law.

The victim at Zeyno's Jewellers told police: "At the moment he grabbed my throat during our struggle, I thought to myself that I would be killed at this point. I was frightened.

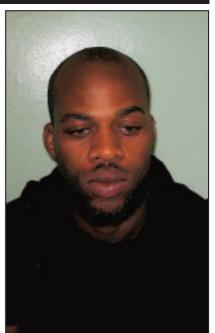

"I couldn't physically press the alarm; my brain locked down and all I wanted to do was get him out of the shop "

In an impact statement the victim at Georgy's Jewellers said: "He pushed me behind the counter and to the back and at that moment I thought I was going to be killed. I was scared for myself and my family and that if something did happen to me, no one would find me."

Lead officer in the case, Detective Constable Paul Weaver of the Met Police's flying squad, said: "Law targeted lone jewellers and used physical violence and the threat of weapons to frighten them into submission.

"The victims continue to deal with the trauma of the robberies today, but I hope they find some reassurance in knowing that this man is now in prison.

"The pursuit of Law shows police work at its best, with officers collaborating to ensure we stop and hold to account those who would seek to harm our communities."

Havva go again at X Factor

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

X FACTOR starlet Havva Rebke is determined to grab her second chance of fame after millions of viewers saw her return to the ITV talent show on Sunday.

talent show on Sunday.

The singer from Enfield wowed all four judges with her rendition of Jessie J's "Masterpiece" to secure a place at Bootcamp — familiar territory to the 21-year-old shopworker who reached the same stage in the competition in 2012.

However, nerves got the better of her back then, dashing her live show chances.

"It just wasn't my time, I was 18, but felt more like 10," explained Havva, from Broadoak Avenue, who has been performing since the age of 12.

"I was very nervous at the first audition, but I couldn't overcome it at boot camp, I had panic attacks and did not tell anyone." That rejection left her crushed

That rejection left her crushed and her confidence was further hit when her mum Dilek got cancer in 2013, at one stage being given only one month to live. "I didn't do much singing at that time, just focused on my mum getting better and being as positive as I could. Mum is my best mate and the only person I trust and I had to be strong too for my sister who was 13 at the time.

After her mother went into remission her family, friends and father, Ali, who is a famous Turkish singer, encouraged her to apply to the show again.

But she kept it secret from everyone that she was back on X Factor.

"They were so surprised when I dropped the bombshell. I was just so happy and wanted to do well for them," she added.

On Sunday's X Factor, diminutive Havva was recognised immediately by judge Rita Ora who had been a guest judge for her first appearance in 2012, when she labelled her "Polly Pocket".

It was an emotional comeback for Havva as she revealed in a TV clip on the show: "I don't have a lot of friends. My family are my best friends – I don't want to cry."

And her proud dad, Ali, said: "She just brings light to every room."

Wreaths laid to mark Battle of Britain Day

THE 75th anniversary of the Battle of Britain was marked in Enfield on Tuesday afternoon with a special commemoration in Broomfield Park Memorial Garden, Palmers Green.

Wreaths were laid and the Last Post played at a special service conducted by the vicar of Christ Church, Southgate, Rev Dr Chrichton Limbert, and attended by various dignitaries, including members of Enfield Council's cabinet, The Queen's representative for Enfield, the Deputy Lieutenant for Greater London, Ann Cable, as well as Enfield mayor Councillor Patricia Ekechi and RAF squadron leader, Tony Beecroft.

Battle of Britain Day commemorates the bravery of RAF fighter pilots who defeated The Luftwaffe in the skies above South East England in the Autumn of 1940. The event is organised by Southgate & Wood Green Royal Air Force Association.

A second event takes place on Sunday with the annual Battle of Britain memorial service at the War Memorial, in Windmill Hill, Enfield, followed by a march down Church Street with the mayor of Enfield taking the salute in The Market Place.

Former BBC staffer is now church vicar

By Jo Siedlecka

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THE hectic world of TV news seems a far cry from a church ministry - but that's the background of the new parish priest at Southgate.

The Reverend Dr Chrichton Limbert was installed as the 13th Vicar of Christ Church by Bishop Peter Broadbent, Acting Bishop of Edmonton, on September 8.

Rev Limbert will be serving alongside Rev Hazell Miall, who studied with him at St Mellitus College - the Anglican institution which specialises in training candidates for ordained ministry while they continue other careers.

The new vicar worked at the BBC in news and current affairs from 1983 to 2012.

"It was a great job" said Rev Limbert. "I travelled all over the world."

Among the programmes he worked on was Breakfast with Frost and Newsnight. Once, when working with John Sergeant around the time of Mrs Thatcher's resignation, Rev Limbert spotted Mrs Thatcher coming down the stairs behind the reporter. "I whispered in his ear: 'look Rev Chrichton is married to Judith and they have three children. The decision to become a priest happened quite naturally.

"I didn't have a career plan," said Rev Limbert.

"My wife and I were both active parishioners in Berkhamsted and I felt more and more drawn to the life."

After some time of discernment he was accepted for studies at St Mellitus College.

For the next three years he continued working at the BBC while attending evening, weekend and summer courses.

He resigned from his job in 2012, was ordained and worked for three years at All Saints, Leighton Buzzard.

"It was a very busy community. I loved working there" he said.

His family have been very supportive and are delighted with the move to Southgate.

They have arrived at a very special time in the history of the parish. This year is the 400th anniversary of continuous Christian worship in Southgate and there have been several special events to celebrate this.

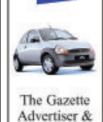

Besides weekly services, Christ Church has a choir, concerts, social events and an annual fete. They also screen classic films with live music.

Rev Limbert says he feels his years of experience as a studio director will help him in his new

"Both require teamwork, presentation, organisation and good communications. Most importantly, I want Christ Church to be an inclusive church, where everyone feels welcome.

Columnist Bill Linton Enfield Green Party

HE welcome given to the flood of refugees from Syria and elsewhere by the Germans, both government and people, has cast a pitiless light on the reluctant niggardliness of our own PM. Pretending to be generous while desperately trying to accept as few refugees as possible.

His response to the question of how to reduce the flow of migrants at source is equally revealing: bomb Syria. It won't be enough to defeat ISIS, but it will ensure a fresh supply of recruits for them, some of them from this country as the UK is seen (even if wrongly) as anti-Muslim.

Cameron, of course, has a second job as an arms salesman – it's his top priority on every visit to the region, however oppressive the regime which happen to be his hosts. 'Rigorous' checks on who arms get sold to almost never seem to prevent any given sale.

Which brings me to the Defence and Security Equipment International arms fair, one of the biggest in the world, which is happening this very week at the Excel Centre. Of course it too does rigorous checks on what is being exhibited, but somehow every time there seems to be something it is illegal to sell in this country. The delegations invited (invited!) show the same disregard for human rights. The last DSEI included Bahrain, Libya, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Afghanistan.

Thanks for making the world a safer place, Dave.

We must show the same level of commitment

YOUR readers may well have seen the horrifying images on newspaper front pages of a three-year-old Syrian boy lying dead on a Turkish beach. I hope they share my anger that David Cameron is only making vague statements and not concrete, solid, commitments to help far more refugees.

Tim Farron MP, the Liberal Democrat leader, said recently to The Independent that "enough is enough," adding: "These pictures are beyond horrific. They are the wake-up call David Cameron needs."

A petition calling on Parliament to debate the refugee issue has received over 200,000 signatures – well in excess of the 100,000 required for the Government to consider debating the

The more signatures there are, the more pressure there is – so I am asking your readers to take a few moments to sign the petition: http://bit.ly/IPNBQ3H

The Liberal Democrats believe that action should be taken immediately. We must start by talking about the practicalities and who we can help. We also need to create safe routes, which will stop the terrible loss of life we currently see in the Mediterranean

The leader of Liberal Democrat-run

Sutton Council has said local councils should take refugees. Councillor Ruth Dombey said: "Local authorities across the country should respond by taking in refugees. Sutton stands ready to help." I urge the Labour leader of Haringey Council to make the same commitment.

Many of us in Haringey have parents or grandparents who fled from persecution overseas and have been grateful of the warm welcome that Britain offered. We should not turn our back on refugees' suffering now.

Councillor Gail Engert Haringey Liberal Democrat Leader of the Opposition

It is our duty to look after borough's trees

I WOULD like to thank Enfield Council's reply to my complaint in regards to the felling of trees in Cecil Road in August ("There was no option but to remove them", Opinion, August 19).

I can see the crux of the matter is the old policies that are still in place used to maintain our highway trees. I do not agree that the trees like it rough, as Councillor Daniel Anderson's arboriculturists would have us believe. It's a miracle they come back the next growing season with what our mature trees have had to put up with.

They are busy sucking up all the carbon from car pollution and providing habitat for the nature we enjoy around us. Each mature tree gives enough oxygen each year for two people. Trees on our roads have proven to make us happier and increase the value of Enfield's properties. I say let's go gentle with the trees and encourage the urban tree canopies and preserve the older veteran trees.

The council's reply has given me assurance that before any action is taken on the trees all residents and all interest groups will be consulted with in the future, but also states more trees are to come down in Cecil Road. Which of course no one is happy about.

I would call on the council to test your identified diseased trees again please, because they are looking scraggy from their recent treatment but happy at the moment. Please give them a chance.

The council's letter stated the Town and Grange ward councillors had been consulted prior to the removal of the tree canopy and felling of the trees in Cecil Road.

Their silence has been very loud to us residents and silence is always understood as agreement, so I am assuming this got their approval.

I always believe a new broom sweeps clean. We are all pinning our hopes on Mr Anderson to adopt newer wide-ranging environmental policies which will take care of our trees and nature and spread a little happiness and health in the borough. I urge everyone who is interested in living alongside nature to look at the Nature and Well Being Green Paper supported by the Wildlife Trusts and the RSPB, found online.

I invite residents to continue the debate on Save Enfield's Trees Facebook group or email me at jaynesaid@hotmail.com

Give land back to the people

WHY is so much public land flogged off to big developers to build very expensive flats for investors? That's a question I've been putting to Mayor of London Boris Johnson for several years now.

There's an alternative gaining popularity around London called Community Land Trusts. These keep ownership in the community, involve local people in designing the plans, and provide more homes that are genuinely affordable to rent or buy. The first trust is on site in Tower Hamlets, transforming the former St Clement's Hospital into 252 new homes as well as community and commercial space.

I'm pushing the Mayor to transfer all unused public land into new Community Land Trusts. He could give land and housing back to the people. He has set up a London Land Commission, working with the usual big developers, but I think we need a People's Land

Commission. Darren Johnson

Facing up to breast cancer

MY sister Lynn was diagnosed with breast cancer in 2002. She noticed a large lump in her breast while filming in Australia. I know her first thought was: "How could that have gotten there without my noticing it?"

Her treatment was tough; chemotherapy, radiotherapy and surgery. I stayed with her. I saw the day her hair fell out. I saw her mastectomy scars. Sadly the breast cancer came back and spread. We lost Lynn five years ago.

Every year 55,000 are diagnosed with this brutal disease in the UK. All of these people need care, support and information – which is why Breast Cancer Care's work is so vital.

Builder fined over dodgy driveways

Ponder's End businessman admitted breaking trading standards after 'defects' discovered

By Lucy Purdy

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

ROGUE builder who intimidated customers and carried out "shoddy" work on driveways has been fined.

John Hanrahan, 46, of Wharf Road, Ponders End, who traded as Marshalls Home Improvements Ltd, has been given a 12-month community order, fined £50 and ordered to carry out 200 hours of unpaid work.

He pleaded guilty to offences under the consumer protection from unfair trading regulations at Wood Green Crown Court on July 6.

Marshalls Home Improvements Ltd had been working on some driveways in the street.

An independent surveyor found that driveways built by Hanrahan had major defects, including inadequate drainage and poor quality workmanship, which meant they would crack and shift position.

Further investigations revealed that those who had commissioned Hanrahan to build their drives had been given insufficient information and no cooling-off period, which is itself an offence.

Sporty great grandmother dies of cancer aged 88

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

TRIBUTES have poured in for an amateur sporting heroine of the borough, who bagged trophies in fencing and bowls despite only taking up the sports later in life.

Yvonne Grammer was 88-yearsold when she died of ovarian cancer at her home in Cranleigh Gardens on August 26.

She was an eight-time bowls champion of Winchmore Hill Bowls Club and a fencing champ of the south of England after taking up the sport when she was 40-yearsold

Her husband Don, 89, told the Advertiser that her late blossoming sporting career stemmed from her teenage love of sport which began when she gained a scholarship to Trinity Grammar School in Wood Green. She rode there by bike every day from her childhood home in Winchmore Hill.

The couple had three daughters and a son, seven grandchildren, and three great grandchildren.

As well as dominating the sporting fixtures of the bowls clubs and the fencing scene, Yvonne travelled widely with husband Don and the pair ventured as far afield as New Zealand and India.

In keeping with the spirit of adventure that had seen her learn to drive at 40 years of age and excel at sport, when travelling to far flung places Yvonne never shied from trying new things. She enjoyed tasting vodka in Russia, and exploring the remote outposts of the Yangtze river in China.

Speaking to the Advertiser after the funeral on September 7, where £1,000 was raised in donations for Macmillan nurses, Don said: "She played bowls so often against other clubs in the area. She was known by everyone, and people will be devastated that she will no longer be part of the club and the fixtures."

Anyone who knew Yvonne and would like to donate to charity in her name can send a cheque to Joan Duparq, c/o Winchmore Hill Bowling Club, Radcliffe Road, N21 2SD

Get digging: Work has begun on a new state-of-the-art playground in Aldersbrook Park, Enfield

Playground is taking shape

By Jo Siedlecka

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

STATE-OF-THE-ART playground equipment and new landscaping are all part of a £118,000 redevelopment project beginning in one of Enfield's popular green spaces.

Money from Enfield Council, national charity Fields in Trust, and London Mayor Boris Johnson, will be used to create a playspace in Aldersbrook Park in Aldersbrook Avenue including swings, slides, trampolines and table tennis areas.

There will also be a general improvement of the wider green space with new trees and plants plus a new graded slope leading to the play area. Councillor Daniel Anderson, cabinet member for environment, said: "Aldersbrook Park is a well-used local park, but one in need of renovation. Once the redevelopment is complete this park will be a haven for fun, boasting state-of-the-art play equipment and landscaped green spaces. I will enjoy returning when it has been completed."

Baker is selfraising funds

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A BAKING guru is raising money for charity by running a series of supper clubs to celebrate the foodie delights of the borough.

Former Great British Bake-Off contestant Urvashi Roe, who runs the Library Cafe in Enfield Town, has organised an intimate supper club at Eco Vino Teatro in The Dugdale Centre in London Road, Enfield, on October 3 at 7pm.

Urvashi, who recently organised a design-a-cupcake competition in Merryhills School, Bincote Road, to raise money for Action Against Hunger, is now hoping to raise more money for the charity by serving up vegetarian Indian delights to lucky diners

The chef and cafe owner is running the London Marathon in April 2016 for Action Against Hunger and hopes the supper club fundraising will help raise as much money as possible for the charity.

Urvashi will be serving up six mouth-watering courses of vegetar-ian Indian food to her diners, many of whom she says will not have tasted them before as they are not usually served in restaurants here.

She said: "It's home cooking that I've grown up with alongside some Indian classics.

Tulip Hambleton, who founded the wine bar in Enfield's Dugdale Centre, will be providing one free glass of bubbly for each diner at the supper

She said: "We are delighted to host Urvashi's supper clubs. The space is quiet and intimate which is perfect for a supper club.

"We've collaborated with Urvashi to pair wines so diners can get a full learning experience from the match of wines with intriguing flavours." Anyone interested in supping fine wine and food in aid of charity can book a ticket at the event via https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/anintimate-indian-supperclub-in-enfield-tickets-18510758176 or pay in cash at The Library Café or Eco Vino Teatro Wine Bar.

They can also tweet Urvashi directly via @LibraryCafeEN2 to book a spot.

And for anyone who misses out this time around, Urvashi will be holding an Indian-themed event on Saturday November 21 to tie in with the Diwali festival of lights as well as a specific vegan dinner in January for 'Veganuary".

Urvashi added: "There are a lot of vegans in the area and in addition to the wonderful vegan wines on offer in the wine bar we'd like to offer a fresh and interesting vegan menu that incorporates local producers such as Enfield Veg Co and Holtwhites

Meridian Water blueprint offers vision for the future

COUNCIL bosses have revealed their vision for the regeneration of the south east of the borough.

The Meridian Water redevelopment project covers 85 hectares of land on former industrial land owned by British Gas.

The council has a dream - and that dream involves decontaminating the land where gas silos once stood, and creating 8,000 new homes on land sandwiched between industrial estates and the North Circular Road.

Earlier this year the area was awarded Housing Zone Status by the Mayor of London's office, giving the council greater freedoms when considering plan-ning applications on the land.

The land has been bought outright by the council, five housing developers have been shortlisted to work as the council's master developer on the project, and Network Rail is on board with bringing more high speed trains to a new station to replace Angel Road.

Council chiefs have been voicing concerns for years about the impact that a lack of social housing combined with rent hikes and housing benefit caps elsewhere in the capital has had on Enfield's housing stock.

Ahmet Oykener, the cabinet officer for housing, told the Advertiser: "In big developments like this sometimes the master developer can sell the whole thing on the map before they start.

"They can go to Japan or wherever and they can just sell it in one.

"But if the local authority says to them that's not what we want to achieve - that we want to achieve local homes for local people they will not advertise it overseas or elsewhere, but at home, where we want the market for this to be."

Peter George, the council's regeneration programme director, added that one thing they are looking at is ways to ensure that one property is sold to one person.

"We were worried about other boroughs buying up all this housing stock as that would mean we would lose control and we would not be able to ensure the properties go to local people.

"Nobody outside of the borough can buy blocks to place people in. That's quite deliberate."

Not all the properties will be social and affordable housing though and Mr George said that part of the development would have to be on the higher-end of a price scale in order to fund the social and affordable homes in

He said: "If we get this site right it will create a place for the whole of London – not just Enfield.

"That will create value and we will use that value to invest in more affordable housing."

DO YOU SUFFER FROM THESE COMMON UROLOGICAL PROBLEMS?

Are you too embarrassed to go to your doctor for help with any of these symptoms? You are not alone...

DIGNIFIED CONSULTATION AND UNDERSTANDING

According to The Urology Foundation, many are too embarrassed to get help with a urological condition, or know what to look out for.¹

Urology is a surgical speciality covering the diagnosis and treatment of disorders of the kidneys, ureters, bladder and prostate - as well as the male reproductive organs. This covers a multitude of ailments, ranging from incontinence and bladder diseases, kidney stones, urinary tract infections, and cancers.

YOU SHOULD CONSIDER CONSULTING AN UROLOGIST IF YOU HAVE ANY OF THE FOLLOWING SYMPTOMS:

- Discomfort while urinating, or getting up at night to pass urine
- A sense of difficulty in completely emptying the bladder, or a slow, prolonged flow
- Incontinence (a loss of urinary control)or other pelvic floor disorders
- Haematuria (the appearance of blood in the urine)
- Pain in your side/flank

- Problems with sexual function
- Infertility (difficulties involved in conceiving a child)
- Testicle/scrotal pain

Our urologists are at the forefront of treatment for a wide range of urological conditions, so if you have any concerns, make an appointment to see your GP and ask to see one of our specialists.

PRIVATE, DISCREET TREATMENT AT BMI THE KINGS OAK & CAVELL HOSPITALS

Our facilities, technology and on-site support services enable our consultants to undertake a wide range of procedures from routine investigations to complex surgery.

This expertise is supported by caring and professional medical staff, with dedicated nursing teams providing care in a friendly and comfortable environment. This is how we're serious about health, and passionate about care.

HOW DO I ACCESS PRIVATE HEALTHCARE TREATMENT?

If you wish to benefit from seeing a consultant urologist privately, it might be easier than you think. If you have private medical insurance, simply tell your GP during your appointment with them, and ask to be referred to BMI The Kings Oak Hospital or BMI The Cavell Hospital. They will send us a referral letter, and we'll call you – usually the same day – to arrange a convenient appointment.

DID YOU KNOW YOU CAN PAY FOR YOURSELF?

If you don't have private medical insurance or there is something you are not covered for, you can still benefit from private healthcare by paying for yourself.

You can even spread the cost of your treatment with the BMI Card, a unique credit card that allows you to spread the cost of your private treatment over a 12 month period, interest free."

The Friends of Broomfield Park managed to locate their whereabouts and at a total cost of £,7,500 – £4,500 of which has come from The Enfield Society – have repaired and restored them.

They now surround the park's 1930s conservatory, which was restored and reopened in 2010.

A 40-strong team from Friends of Broomfield Park, care for the plants and organise special events. The venue now attracts 7,000 visitors a year.

A council spokesman said: "It is very fortunate that these railings have survived. During the Second World War most iron gates and rails in the borough were collected and melted down to make armaments."

Elizabeth Dobbie, chair of the Broomfield Park Conservation subcommittee said: "These railings were languishing at a council scrap yard in Broxbourne. We're very pleased that they have been restored and are now in their new home."

Tony Dey, management committee member of the Enfield Society, which provided most of the funding for the project, complemented the local building and metalworking companies who completed the work, saying: "Both Triangle Ironworks and WJ Norman are local, care for the Palmers Green area and have undertaken previous work in the park and nearby."

THE HIGHLAND ANGUS STEAK HOUSE

A great success...

The re-opening of this popular family run restaurant proved to be a great success, filled with regulars and local support that shows that quality food speaks for itself.

Serving diners since 1971 with quality fresh meat imported directly from Scotland to ensure the restaurant holds its promise to provide mouth watering dishes every time.

My favourite dish was the steak. I was presented with one of the best steaks I've ever eaten, so I can personally recommend you try it.

The newly decorated restaurant has been brightened up and the open plan seating area retained but the classic features give diners the relaxed and welcoming atmosphere they deserve.

The menu has remained the same, but let's be honest you do not need to improve on perfection.

Chickenshed's £45,000 boost

Foundation awards theatre company bumper grant

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

CHICKENSHED Theatre has been awarded a grant of tens of thousands of pounds by the Andrew Lloyd Webber Foundation.

The theatre, based in Chase Side, Southgate, will receive £45,000 to support its Young Creators programme.

The vocational training programme is for young people aged between 14 and 25 and is designed to equip them for a career in the performing arts.

Rather than replicating the wide range of courses that exist for performers, the programme teaches young people about working behind the scenes in a professional theatre.

From directing, choreography, songwriting and scriptwriting, to skills in lighting, wardrobe and music technology, the course covers the lot The grant will be spread over three years.

"As supporters of the programme since its early days, it is heart-warming that trustees are investing in this project with such a significant grant," explained Susan Jamson, from Chickenshed.

"Having funding secured for multiple years allows us to plan activities and ensures the sustainability and longevity of the programme.

"By providing accessible routes into employment within the arts, we are also contributing to the diversification of the sector ensuring opportunities are available to young people from all backgrounds."

The programme has capacity for 165 young people, who will work in small groups.
Staff act as mentors as well as offering professional training.

Job done: Palmers Green Library reopens on Monday after its redevelopment reopens following facelift

A REVAMPED library will open its doors to the borough's bookworms again next week.

Palmers Green Library, in Broomfield Lane, has been closed since 2014 for extensive redevelopment work

On Monday the library will welcome literature lovers back into the fold with a raft of new technology hailing its launch as a "flagship library". The new building includes a children's section, an area specifically for young adult literature, a community room and new IT suites including electronic noticeboards and a new gadget bar with Wifi access.

Ayfer Orhan, the cabinet chief responsible for libraries, said: "This library has been entirely transformed and people will be surprised and delighted when they see it.

"It is now a joyful place celebrating literature, learning, entertainment and the latest technology.

The new library was planned as one of the borough's four flagship libraries that form the core of new proposals to shave down the existing library service, leaving the other 13 libraries in the borough as "community libraries" which will share space with voluntary organisations run by volunteers rather than trained librarians.

Council plans indicate that eventually all four flagship libraries in Palmers Green, Enfield Town, Ordnance Road and Edmonton will be open seven days a week.

THE bees' knees might not be how all residents view the borough, but thanks to fragrant flowers and pretty plants a country estate has won praise for fulfilling bees' needs.

Forty Hall Park, in Forty Hill, in the north of the borough, was awarded a commendation Bees Needs awards by Green Flag to celebrate the work which the estate has done in cultivating a haven for bees and insects in urban spaces.

Judges were impressed by the work that the Friends of Forty Hall and Enfield Council had done in planting specific species of plants that attract pollinators such as bees as well as the careful management of the grounds which has created a space for the bees to thrive in.

The park was also given credit for creating special winter habitats for bees and putting on workshops for schoolchildren that emphasised the importance of bees to our ecosystem.

Daniel Anderson, cabinet member for environment, said: "Our lives, and the world, would be a very different place without bees. Bees are the main pollinators of flowers and crops and our modern food system relies upon them. "Unfortunately, nationwide, bees are in steep decline, which is mainly due to the loss of habitat, but also because of the pesticides that are being used.

"I am therefore delighted to see that the sterling work being undertaken at Forty Hall to help promote bees is having an impact and that Green Flag have recognised this."

Jo-Ann Brown, from the Friends of Forty Hall Park said "The Friends, Enfield Council and the gardening staff at Forty Hall have been working really hard to make Forty Hall Park bee friendly.

"When we plant and cultivate the grounds we are always thinking about what plants would make it easier for bees to pollinate and thrive, and our education projects, teaching children about why we must protect and encourage bees, will make the next generation continue the conservation

EVERYTHING a first-time cyclist needs can be rented from the council for just £10.

The scheme for cycling beginners, which has been running for over a year, is being hailed as a "success" by environment bosses keen to transform the borough.

The cabinet chief for environment, Daniel Anderson, said: "The £10 cycle loan scheme is extremely popular and you can see why.

"We know that many people would like to give cycling a go, but just don't know where to start.

"They are equally concerned about the cost of bikes and associated equipment.

"This scheme gives you access to a quality bike, equipment, and guidance, which is everything you need to start cycling, and all this for just a tenner.

"As part of the scheme we provide free cycle lessons enabling participants to learn road safety and gain other important cycling tips from

Knights of the rectangular table: Youngsters adopt some regal poses

By Jo Siedlecka

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

YOUNGSTERS paid their own tributes to Oueen Elizabeth after she became our longest-reigning monarch on Wednesday, having been on the throne for more than 63 years and surpassing previous record holder Queen Victoria.

Pupils and teachers from West Grove Primary School in Chase Road, Southgate, held a week of celebrations to mark the occasion, with many lessons having a royal theme - and on Friday they threw a street party in Her Majesty's honour, which was also attended by residents of nearby Chase Grove.

Casev Teacher Yzelle explained: "The children made crowns, tiaras and a golden orb. They also had a competition to design their own royal coat-ofarms. There was a royal bake-off, making special cakes and biscuits

"And the children all wrote their own Queen's Speech.

"They did some beautiful

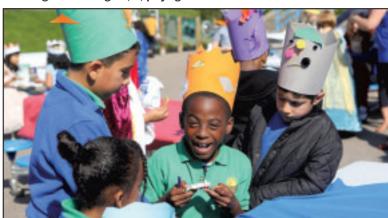

"They also wrote a letter to the Queen. When we get a reply it will have pride of place on the wall.

On the day of the street party both teachers and pupils dressed up in regal attire, she added.

"It was a wonderful day," said Ms Casey.

First Steps - The Alice Nursery

(Girls only pre-prep for Palmers Green High School for 3-4 year olds)

At the Alice Nursery we pride ourselves on offering a first-rate pre-prep experience, led by our Nursery Manager (a fully trained and experienced teacher) and her specialist Early Years Trained staff. Girls flourish in an atmosphere of calm excitement and purposeful engagement as they discover the world around them through a variety of carefully planned activities linked to a weekly theme. As soon as they are ready to begin to read they are encouraged to do so, being taught by fully-trained staff with a working knowledge of education beyond Nursery.

The girls have experienced a host of fun-filled trips and events that have kept them busy throughout this academic year. Annual highlights included the Nursery Nativity, Sports Day, trip to Willows Farm and Paradise Wildlife Park, and visits from Uncle Vic and his 'mini beasts' and Edmonton Fire Brigade.

Whilst the Alice Nursery is currently full there are some vacancies for the next academic year. Girls may join after their third birthday and families are welcome to visit during our regular Wednesday Open Mornings. However, please be aware that the colourful and welcoming environment of the nursery often means that prospective parents - and especially their daughters - often don't want to leave!

BARNET AND SOUTHGATE COLLEGE MAKE THE GRADE IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE

Over 500 Barnet and Southgate College students received their

Over 500 Barnet and Southgate College students received their A and AS level results last week, many of them exceeding their own expectations. The results were better than last year with a marked increase in the higher grade passes. 100% pass rates were achieved in a number of subject's including: English Learneure, History, Law, Government and Politics, Music Technology, Music, Film Studies and Photography. Successful students said the results were down to the style of teaching and the great atmosphere at the College, as well as the excellent facilities. Lara Hegarty, aged 19 from Friern Barnet had a challenging start after not doing that well in her AS levels, but she turned things around for her A2's; her hard work and determination paid of achieving A levels in English Literature (grade A), Sociology (grade A) and Government and Politics (grade B) Lara said: "I'm so pleased I've actually got the grades and got my place at the University of Sheffield where I'll be studying Politics. Barnet and Southgate College has been the best atmosphere for me. I love the Wood Street campus; we're treated like adults and we work independently, which is great preparation for University. The environment is so professional and our tutors respect our opinions and it's a great place to learn in fact my politics tuter inspired net to choose to an oute preparation for University. The environment is so professional and our tutors respect our opinions and it's a great place to learn, in fact my politics tutor inspired me to choose to go onto study that subject at University. Everyone that is here, is here for a reason, whether that's to get to University, study BTEC's or gain an apprenticeship. I love the fact that we're all taking our education seriously to achieve our career goals." Bilal Khan is 18 years old and lives in Enfield, he achieved an amazing three A's in all his subjects today, which included: Law (grade A), Government and Politics (grade A) and Economics (grade A) (grade A), Government and Politics (grade A) and Economics (grade A).

Bilal said: "I've exceeded my own expectations with my results today, I'm over the moon and really glad all my hard work has actually paid off. I'm going to Queen Mary College London to study Law and there I'm planning on getting my degree, then I hope to study for a Master's degree after which I hope to become a Barrister. The teaching and support has been exceptional here and I'm gutted to be leaving, but I'm excited about going to University. I'm grateful to Barnet and Southgate College for helping me achieve what I set out to do. I'm looking forward to studying further in London and fulfilling my career aspirations." my career aspirations.'

achieved the grades to accept a place at Nottingham University to study Sociology with Criminology. Siobhan said:
"I'm so pleased I managed to get two A stars today and a B! I've really enjoyed my time at College but I'm really looking forward to going to Nottingham University to study as I loved the campus there. But I also enjoyed my time at College, there are all sorts of people of all ages here, and you're supported by all the tutors in a mature way, so really it's much better preparation for University as it's a stepping stone to going onto higher education and life in general. The teaching has been outstanding but ultimately it's what you make of it that matters, if you work hard it will pay off."

Barnet and Southgate College Principal, David Byrne said: "Barnet and Southgate College has achieved some impressive A and AS level results this year with 100% pass rates in many subjects, which is testament to the hard work and dedication of subjects, which is testament to the hard work and dedication of subjects, which is testament to the hard work and dedication of our students. They should be very proud of their achievements, some are going onto study at prestigious universities, some will be staying on at College for their Higher Education and a number of them will be taking up apprenticeships or going straight into the workplace. However, not every student will have done as well as they had hoped and we'll be able to offer support and guidance on what to do next and in most cases be able to offer them a suitable course to follow. If anyone's unsure what to do next they can come in and see us at all College campuses for further advice and enrolment throughout the summer."

members of the public to pay a visit on Saturday.

designed by Sir George Gilbert Scott the underground in the 1930s.' and members of the public will be welcomed into the interior of the stained glass window collection founded in May 1615. which spans 50 years of output from the studio of William Morris & Company, including designs by pre-Raphaelite artists Edward Burne Jones, Philip Webb, Dante Gabriel Rossetti and a self-portrait design of William Morris himself.

Philip Dawson, a Southgate resident who is running the open weekend for the church, told the song on Sunday evening at 6.30pm.

Advertiser it would be a rare opportunity for people to glimpse a "slice of the social history of Southgate".

He added: "There are mosaics, pre-Raphaelite stained glass windows and wall paintings. They all tell a fascinating story about the social history of Southgate from the time it was the four great estates of Arnos Christchurch Anglican Church in Grove, which was the stately home The Green, Southgate, is inviting of the Walker family, Beaver Hall, Minchenden House and Broomfield House to when it became a more The Grade II*-listed church was suburban parish with the arrival of

Summit to shout about

EVEREST (12A, 131 mins)

CELANDIC director Baltasar Kormakur heads for the highest peak on earth for a gripping drama based on true events, which cast a deathly shadow over the mountaineering community in 1996.

Penned by William Nicholson and Simon Beaufoy, award-winning scribes of Gladiator and Slumdog Millionaire, Everest is a slickly orchestrated recreation of an ill-fated ascent to 29,029ft above sea level, where altitude sickness silently stalks the most experienced climbers.

From this literally breathtaking vantage point, one wrong movement or the slightest change in Mother Nature's volatile temperament can be fatal.

The air is too thin for helicopter rescue, so all that separates expeditions from an icy grave is the eternal flame of the human spirit, which compels men and women to perform superhuman feats of strength and endurance

Rob Hall (Jason Clarke) and Scott Fischer (Jake Gyllenhaal) lead rival expeditions, racing against one another and the elements to ensure their clients are on top of the world.

Unlike his rival, Rob takes a fastidious, cautious approach to each ascent with his company Adventure Consultants, promising his pregnant wife Jan (Keira Knightley) that he will return soon for the imminent birth of their daughter.

His base camp team includes mother hen Helen Wilton (Emily Watson), medic Caroline Mackenzie (Elizabeth Debicki) and fellow guide Andy Harris (Martin Hender-

Clients on Hall's ill-fated May 1996 expedition include respected journalist Jon Krakauer (Michael Kelly), postman Doug Hansen (John Hawkes), doctor Beck Weathers (Josh Brolin) and Yasuko Namba (Naoko Mori), who is attempting to become only the second Japanese woman to reach the summits of the highest mountains on all seven continents.

As Rob and Scott's teams approach the summit, a fierce storm rumbles nearby, threatening to trap the climbers and guides on the rock face.

"There is competition between every person and this mountain. The last word always belongs to the mountain," pointedly observes one of the guides.

Everest doesn't quite scale the dizzy emotional heights to which it aspires and it's not always easy to distinguish characters when tragedy strikes in the eye of a storm, but there is no escaping the nerve-racking suspense that holds us in a vice-like grip.

Performances are occasionally lost to the roar of the sub-zero wind but Watson certainly wrings out tears that remain frozen for other cast members.

Kormakur's decision to shoot his picture in 3D and IMAX 3D adds a vertiginous, stomach-churning extra dimension to this high-wire fight for survival.

We experience the relentless, sickening pull of gravity as the camera swoops above and below the characters as they clamber over rickety ladders that traverse gaping crevasses on the treacherous Khumbu Icefall.

These brave souls might be instructed to keep their heads up, but we have no choice but to stare at the jagged wall of rock and ice that stretches down towards

Don't be afraid to hold on white-knuckle tight to the armrest of your seat.

Work begins at Oakwell Grange

WORK has officially started at a new housing development in Barnet.

David Wilson Homes North Thames invited Mayor of Barnet Mark Shooter to Oakwell Grange to meet Managing Director Ian Sadler at the site on Well Grove.

The Mayor and Mr Sadler managed to dodge the rain clouds as they cut the sod at the housebuilder's first development in the borough which will have 70 homes once completed.

As well as building much needed new homes, David Wilson Homes will also be investing over £2 million in the community in areas such as education, health and sport and recreation. A sum of £662,560 will be invested in education while £450,000 will be spent on providing sports facilities to include associated buildings for cricket and football.

Ian Sadler, Managing Director at David Wilson Homes North Thames, said, "We were delighted to be able to welcome the Mayor to Oakwell Grange to view the site at the start of work and to tell him more about our plans. This is an exciting time for David Wilson Homes as Oakwell Grange marks the first time we have built in the borough of Barnet and as well as providing new homes we will also be investing in the area so the benefits will be felt across the borough."

A number of three, four and five bedroom houses will be built at Oakwell Grange and the development will benefit from superb transport links as Totteridge and Whetstone underground station is just a short walk away. The station is in zone four on the Northern Line and offers direct access to central London in 30 minutes.

David Wilson Homes has been awarded the maximum five star official rating from the Home Builders Federation (HBF) for the sixth year in a row. The company was awarded the rating after gaining fantastic feedback in the HBF customer satisfaction survey which involved more than 20,000 new homebuyers across the country answering questions about moving into their new homes.

For more information about Oakwell Grange please call the sales information line on 08448 547 767 which is open Monday-Friday 8am to 9pm and until 8pm Saturday-Sunday. Alternatively please log on to www.dwh.co.uk for more information about David Wilson Homes developments.

Magda Wren ★★★★

I have just recently bought my first property through Atkinsons Residential. They have been very professional, helpful and easy to contact. When I registered with them, they sent me an email with all the properties within my budget (before they were advertised online). My sister-in-law recommended them to me. Few days ago, I received personalised moving cards with the photo of my new house and address which I thought was great and useful.

The team at Atkinsons Residential consistently delivered excellent service during the whole sales process. As a first time buyer, I always felt well informed during every stage of the sale and the team kept my mind at ease with their outstanding professionalism. From the initial viewings with Dan and Chelsie, to completing the purchase with Nicky, Atkinsons Residential made buying my first house as easy it could be. I will definitely use Atkinsons Residentials services again. Thank you for all your help!!

ACCURATE VALUATIONS IN ENFIELD

The main factors that affect the price achieved for your home are likely to be size, location and fittings. However, there are innumerable other variations that can add significant value.

Valuing properties in West Enfield is not like valuing properties elsewhere. There are thousands of different styles and in some roads every other property is quite different to the next. The knowledge to appreciate these differences can only be built up over time.

At Ian Gibbs, our valuers have built up that knowledge with over 35 years of valuing properties in the EN1/EN2 area and that experience heightens the chance of you realising the full potential of your greatest financial asset.

SALES ■ SECOND HAND ■ SERVICING ■ ACCESSORIES

It (almost) looks good in brown!

By Matt Kimberley

RITISH fans of the compact SUV rejoice! The GLC represents the first time Mercedes has built a small off-roader as a right-hand drive, so it's the first chance the three-pointed star has had to test its mettle against the sales behemoths that are the BMW X3 and the Audi Q5. At this stage, it's four-wheel drive only. A low-CO2 two-wheel drive could arrive in 2016.

A pair of 2.1-litre diesel engines is all that's familiar, as they've been employed in about every Merc this side of the S-Class. There are two states of tune, but the 168bhp GLC 220d version will be the best seller.

The GLC is arguably the sweetest-looking of the Mercedes SUVs. It carries less visual weight than the GLE and its neatness is instantly easier on the eye. It almost manages to look good in brown. Almost

As for image, you'd be forgiven for thinking that novelty counts for a lot in this sector. This is the latest new thing to tell the neighbours about, and it's likely that large numbers of people will buy pact family hatch, but a 550-litre boot makes use of the GLC's height to create extra room for stacking cases. The all-wheel drive system and automatic gearbox, linked to advanced stability control and road-biased ever-so-slightly dual-purpose noticing it. tyres, create a stable platform that will inspire confidence in all weathers.

Not many Brits are likely to opt for an off-road package, but those who do will gain 46mm more ground clearance, greater angles of approach and departure and a hill descent control system. This is effective even on steep, slippery surfaces and will control the car's descent speed independently of the driver with unerring precision.

The entry-level diesel engine provides all you really need. While it's not fast and isn't quiet, it's strong enough for all sorts of uses - even pretty heavy-duty off-roading if you add the relevant option pack that includes height-adjustable suspension. AMG Line models come with harder sports suspension, and you should avoid this if you can. The standard suspension is noticeably plusher and more comfortable for everyday driving.

A nine-speed automatic gearbox is standard – a flock to the GLC.

It's only about 15cm longer than a common com- luxury feature you don't get on rival cars. It works extremely well for the most part, but can skip around all too frequently between ratios as it tries to find the best balance for that particular moment. Avoid watching the rev counter and you'll stop

> At an initial starting price of just under £35,000, the GLC is more expensive than the cheapest automatic, four-wheel drive Audi Q5. It's better looking, with a more impressive media interface and an interesting interior ambiance. The torque converter gearbox will offer some buyers a better option than the lighter weight, but there is reportedly a less robust dual-clutch equivalent in the Audi. Options for the Mercedes are expensive, so brace yourself if you're determined to add stereo or wheel upgrades.

Compact SUVs are selling like hot cakes in Britain, and premium models have been no exception. This is a car that combines the interior space and running costs of a large hatchback with the desirable raised seating position and image boost of an SUV. Buyers for whom a Nissan Qashqai is too common and a BMW X3 is too last year will

MASON'S DELIGHT AT CRUCIAL GOAL

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

RYAN MASON insists that picking up an injury was a small price to pay for scoring the winning goal to help Tottenham Hotspur beat Sunderland 1-0 on Sunday and record their first victory of the season.

A difficult start to the campaign had seen Spurs pick up just three points – all from draws – from their first four matches, and they again looked like they would be frustrated in their quest to pick up a win at the Stadium of Light until Mason struck the decisive blow with just eight minutes remaining.

However, the England international midfielder was caught by home keeper Costel Pantilimon in the process of scoring and played no further part in the contest as he was carried off on a stretcher with Spurs still waiting to discover the extent of Mason's injury.

"Of course I'd take a whack, as long as I'm back for the next game," he said. "Scoring a goal is the best feeling in the world.

"It was a massive result for us. We'd gone four games without a win so we didn't really care how it came as long as we got the three points.

"It was like a basketball match at times, end to end and so open. The first goal was always going to be key and thankfully we scored it and held on this time. The most important thing was the win and we've now got four home matches coming up so it's all positive.

"It felt good to score. I felt fit, I was timing runs and looking to get forward. I haven't shied away from wanting to score goals, but perhaps at the same time I've been a bit naïve because I can't forget that I'm a defensive central midfielder now and it's difficult to make the box as regularly as I'd like to. It was nice to do it against Sunderland and help us get the three points."

The match also saw Heung-Min Son make his debut for Totten-ham following his big-money move from Bayer Leverkusen last month, and the South Korean international forward was thrilled to have made his first start for the club.

"It was amazing for me to make my debut – it's a dream for me to play in the Premier League," he said. "I know I can play better, but this is only my first game. Now I want more. I just need a bit of time to settle in with the team.

"I'm really happy we've got our first win. The players were very good, but we're looking to play much better, which we'll see over the next few weeks."

Meanwhile, Tottenham have confirmed that striker Emmanuel Adebayor has been released from his contract by mutual consent.

Adebayor, who did not feature in head coach Mauricio Pochettino's plans and was left out of Spurs' squads for both the Premier League and Europa League, scored 35 goals in 87 league appearances for the club.

Skolars end their season with narrow defeat

THE London Skolars came close to rounding off their disappointing season with another win on the road before eventually suffering a 26-22 defeat at Rochdale Hornets in rugby league's Kingstone Press Championship One on Saturday.

The Skolars had picked up a rare away victory at Coventry in their previous outing and – clearly lifted by that result – they gave a good account of themselves in this match against a side who still had hopes of reaching the play-offs.

The visitors began brightly, with their big forward pack to the fore, but they were unable to turn their early pressure into points and it was Rochdale who struck first on 14 minutes when Matty Fozard scored a try which Paul Crook converted.

Rochdale briefly threatened to take control after this and Gaz Langley had a try disallowed before they did extend their advantage on 26 minutes when Wayne English touched down.

But the Skolars hit back and they got on the scoreboard on the half hour as a fine move saw player-coach Jermaine Coleman and Mike Benson combine to set up James Anthony for a try which Tommy Connick converted, before Anthony grabbed another converted try four minutes later to give them the lead.

However, the visitors were unable to maintain their advantage for long as Rochdale struck on the stroke of half-time – Alex Trumper claiming a converted try out wide.

Anthony was proving a constant threat to the home defence though, and he completed his hat-trick six minutes into the second half following good work from Aaron Small, with Connick's successful conversion putting them back ahead.

The Skolars held on to their lead for longer on this occasion as the hosts were becoming increasingly frustrated – but a sudden burst just after the hour mark saw Dale Bloomfield and Danny Bridge score tries in quick succession to put Rochdale in command.

Still the visitors refused to lie down and Jimmy Morgan gave them renewed hope by touching down with eight minutes remaining to reduce their deficit to four points, but they were unable to break through again as they slumped to a defeat which left them in 11th place in the final table.

Borough bow out of the FA Cup HARINGEY BOROUGH'S interest in tage – Evandro Delgado embarking on a the FA Cup came to an end on Saturday when they were beaten 3-0 at Potters Bar Town in the first qualifying round.

Borough's only win of what has been a difficult start to the season came in the preliminary round of the competition — when they overcame Barking 2-1 — but they were unable to build on that as they were very much second best against a Potters Bar side who play at the same level as them in Division One Central of the Southern League.

The hosts broke the deadlock in the tenth minute as Dave Lawrence scored with a fine finish following some good work from Joe Bennett.

Potters Bar continued to put the visitors under severe pressure, and it came as some surprise that they had to wait until the 31st minute to double their advantage – Evandro Delgado embarking on a mazy run through the defence before firing into the net.

To their credit, Borough fought back well in the second half and dominated for long spells, but a mixture of some poor finishing and good defending from the hosts meant that they were unable to force their way back into the match.

And the visitors' fate was sealed late on when substitute Jack Lyons raced on to Bennett's through-ball and rounded the keeper before slotting into an empty net.

Meanwhile, Borough's struggles in Ryman League Division One North continued on Tuesday last week when they lost 2-1 at home to Waltham Abbey.

Haringey Borough face home league games against Bury Town on Saturday (3pm) and Cray Wanderers on Tuesday (7.45pm).
